

SUES A TINICUM RESIDENT FOR $1,000

Storekeeper in Lower Southampton Also Sued; Sum is $474

ACTIONS FOR DIVORCE

Mrs. Margaret J. Poore, A Minor, Asks Divorce From Edward Poore

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 21 — In the Court of Common Pleas here, four suits have been entered. In one a Tinicum township man is being sued for $1,000; in another a Lower Southampton township storekeeper is being sued for $474, and in two divorce libels the complainants are a Langhorne, RD 2 minor, and a Bedminster matron.

Thomas Erwin, Tinicum township, has been named the defendant in an action in assumpsit by Little, Wilson & Deats Company, Pittsboro, N. J., who are claiming $1,009.17 with interest from Feb. 23, 1948.

Howard F. Brown, Phila., has named Anna May Jones, Brownsboro, Lower Southampton township, the defendant in a $474.28 assumpsit action. The sum grows out of carpentry work, including labor and materials, done by the complainant for the defendant's store and house in 1947.

Mrs. Margaret J. Poore, a minor, through John W. Adams, Front and Woodlawn streets, Langhorne, RD 2, has named her husband, Edward Poore, 197 West Thelma street, Philadelphia, the defendant in a divorce action. They were married April 20, 1946, in Philadelphia, and separated in June, 1947.

Edwin Rodrock, Kintnersville, has been named the defendant in a libel in divorce by his wife, Martha W. Rodrock, Bedminster. They were married April 13, 1946, in Bedminster, and separated in 1948.

A divorce suit has been filed by Richard Nicholls against his wife, Catherine Dunbar Nicholls, Quakertown, RD 1.

John Aches and Barbara Aches and a minor, John Aches, have named Walter Cole the defendant in a writ of summons in trespass. No statement has been filed by the complainant as yet.

HERE AND THERE IN BUCKS COUNTY TOWNS

Activities of Interest To All In The Various Communities

GLEANED BY SCRIBES

Bucks County Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will conduct a luncheon session today at the residence of Mrs. Adolph Ponck, near Mechanicsville.

Nearly 230 teachers and directors of Areas I, II, and III of the Bucks County Teachers' Association attended a banquet at Quakertown on Thursday evening.

Highlighting the program was a talk by Zigrida Zeltins, a Quakertown High School student, who told of her experiences in Latvia and later as a displaced person in Germany.

Joseph S. Neidig, supervising principal of the Quakertown schools, gave a talk concerning current legislation affecting teachers.

Greetings were offered by Floyd H. Kilmer, a member of the faculty of Quakertown high school and president of the county association Leroy Strunk, president of area II, served as toastmaster.

In attendance as a guest, was Albert C. Rutter, Perkase, one of the assistant county superintendents at the time the late J. Harry Hoffman, Doylestown, was superintendent. Now in retirement, Mr. Rutter occupied a place at the speakers' table, as did also Franklin H. Moore, president of the Bucks County School Directors' Association.

This unanimity did not extend to the police for the projected West German state. Britain objected to the aim of the United States to retain its controlling voice over foreign exchange and foreign trade policies. France has opposed other features of the planned merger. In the Ruhr, United States and British authorities named 12 Germans to serve as interim trustees of the steel industry; nine of those named had been selected by the Socialists and the unions.

All Russian papers, which previously had denounced the North Atlantic Treaty as a threat to world peace, published the text of the pact. Some papers carried extensive comment in opposition. John Foster Dulles and Ambassador Jessup stressed the treaty's defensive nature in a State Department broadcast.

LETTER-A-DAY CAMPAIGN TO PROTEST BRIDGE

Morrisville Committee Plans To Bombard Senators With Communications

TELL OF OBJECTIONS

MORRISVILLE, Mar. 21 — A letter writing campaign protesting the bill providing for the proposed bridge across the Delaware river here has been launched. It is planned to write a "letter-a-day" to each of the 50 State Senators at Harrisburg from a member of the protest committee.

The letters will urge the Senators to defeat the bill which would give the Delaware River Bridge Commission power to take over borough property for its purposes without interference from borough authorities. The bill was passed by the State Assembly last week.

In their letters the Committee members will point out the various aspects of the situation as it affects Morrisville. The bill would enable the Commission to go ahead with its plans to build a new toll bridge at Morrisville. This would mean the members will declare that approximately 50 homes would have to be torn down in the borough to make way for the approach to the bridge.

THREE PARTIES -- OR FIVE

Those Americans who are trying seriously to analyze our national situation, and who are watching closely the Truman drive to shove Socialism down the throat of Congress, would do well not to be misled by the President's remark about a "three-party Congress."

What the President said (as customary, the reporters did not quote his exact words at the press conference) was to the effect that this nation now has three political parties—Republican, Democrat and Dixiecrat.

This is incorrect. The moment one goes beyond the two major parties of the times—Republicans and Democrats—it becomes obvious there are five political parties, not three.

These divisions are as follows:

1. The Stalwart Republicans.
2. The "Liberal," Young Turk Republicans.
3. The Old-Line Jeffersonian Democrats (of which the Dixiecrats are merely a wing).
4. The Labor-Socialist Democrat radicals (to which Mr. Truman belongs).
5. The pro-Communists, who refused the Wallace bid to come out into the open, and are working largely under cover.

The Republican Stalwarts are the large portion of the Party who still believe in the principles of Republicanism founded by Abraham Lincoln and adhered to during the eighty years or so that saw the greatest success of the nation and the Republican Party.

This group believes in the Constitution, and wants to return to Constitutional government. It bitterly opposes the present policy of financing government spending by inflation. It supports representative republican government, which is government by law rather than men, and government dedicated to protecting the rights of minorities; as opposed to democratic government, which is dictatorship of the majority, in which minorities have no rights.

Because, at the state level, this portion of the Republican Party was able to get capable and energetic spokesmen to lead it, the Republicans "came back" during the past twelve years from their Maine-Vermont low-water mark of the 1936 defeat.

JUSTICES DISCUSS NUMEROUS PROBLEMS

Meeting of Bucks County Association is Held At Doylestown

CONSIDER BAIL BONDS

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 21 — In a meeting of the Bucks County Magistrates' and Justices' of Peace Association held here one of the subjects discussed was a subject brought to the floor by a Warminster township Justice of peace. He asked: "What can be done about a church which sells tickets for a dance and among other refreshments furnishes beer and some of the beer drinkers are minors and get into trouble?" A Middletown Township justice suggested that it was a problem for Liquor Control Board officials.

A Churchville "Squire" urged charging the church officials which engage in such a practice with contributing to the delinquency of minors.

The subject of bail-bonds, those which are on the acceptable list, was discussed. Justice of the Peace Fred L. Bickel suggested that a list of acceptable bail-bonding companies be made up by the Deputy Clerk of Quarter Sessions, Walter C. Schroeder and circulated to the Bucks county members.

Another complaint was about getting a J. of P. out of bed anytime between 1 and 4 o'clock Sunday morning to take care of some "Saturday night drunk or rowdy."

Freight Car Derailment Attracts A Big Crowd

TREVOSE, Mar. 21 — When two freight cars of an 86-car train left tracks of the Reading Co. lines, at Trevese station, Saturday, the two center tracks of the four-track right of way were blocked off.

The 21st and 22nd cars, an oil tank car and a box car, lay broadside across the tracks after the accident. Wrecking crews worked with huge cranes for more than an hour before the cars were removed. No one was injured.

Reading Co. officials could not immediately determine the cause of the derailment. Railroad agents arrived at the scene shortly after the wreck occurred and began an investigation.

The Langhorne barracks of Pennsylvania State Police sent patrol car crews to control crowds which assembled at the scene.

Miss Rita Lanteigne, Quakertown, Operated Upon in Hospital

MOTHER SHEDS TEARS

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 21 — Miss Rita Lanteigne, Quakertown high school commercial senior, who was to appear in civil court Friday to resume her testimony in the trial in which her parents are suing for damages done to their restaurant after an automobile shattered the front and halted in the dining room, underwent an operation in Quakertown Community Hospital about the time she was intended to take the witness stand.

Lanteigne, wept quietly as she testified that her daughter was taken ill Thursday night and rushed to the hospital Friday morning for an emergency operation for removal of her appendix. She was to testify as to details concerning the demolishing of the first floor by the defendant, James P. Duffy, who was operating his car which left Route 309, after colliding with a truck, and ran into the restaurant.

One of the defendants, James P. Duffy, who operated a machine repair shop at 535 Fifth avenue, Bethlehem, never appeared in court in connection with the trial. He is no longer in that business at that place.

Annual Report Shows An Increase of 15.8% In Sales

DIVIDEND PAID, $2.10

ST. PAUL, Minn., Mar. 21 — Total sales of the Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Co., and its subsidiaries, were $108,246,410 for 1948, setting an all-time record.

The company's annual report, released to stockholders today, showed net income for the year of $13,234,756 after providing $8,700,000 for federal and state taxes.

In 1947 the gross was $93,437,137, and the net was $10,715,376. Last year's record shows an increase of 15.8 per cent in sales, but the percentage of profit to sales was up less than one per cent.

In a letter which accompanied the financial statement, 3M's president, W. L. McKnight, said that for much of 1948 it was impossible to increase selling prices as rapidly as costs rose.

This, he indicated, accounted in a large measure for the small increase in the percentage of net income.

Earnings per share of common stock for the year were $6.51, compared with $5.47 for the previous year. Dividends of $2.10 per share were paid on the common in 1948, and $4.99 on the preferred, first issued late in 1947.

Wages, salaries and other compensation paid to employees in 1948 were $31,389,686, up 19 per cent over the year before. The number of em-

Eddington Woman Hurt In Accident Saturday In Philadelphia

A small boy was struck and injured, an automobile crashed into a bus, in two accidents here over the week-end, and an Eddington woman suffered injuries when thrown from a jeep in Philadelphia.

Injured:

James Giglio, 5, of 409 Washington street, incised wound on top of head requiring seven stitches, contusion on top of head, and brush burns about the legs, arms and body. He is in Harriman Hospital.

Alberta Hendrickson, 40, of Eddington. Injuries of the head and right hip. Treated at the Frankford Hospital.

The Giglio boy was struck by a car driven by Louis DiTullo, 836 Beaver street, Saturday afternoon at about 3.30 o'clock. Tulio took the injured boy to the hospital, where X-rays are to be taken. Tulio was driving north on Washington street, north of Pond street. He said that he did not see the boy but heard a thump and stopped his car and found the boy under the machine. He believes that the lad ran out from behind a parked car. Officer Savkville investigated.

Claude A. Ditzler, 30, Fallington avenue, Tullytown, was the operator of a car which struck a Neibauer bus Saturday morning, which was driven by W. Henry Roberts, Sycamore avenue, Croydon. The accident occurred at about six o'clock Saturday morning on Farragut avenue. Both the bus and the car were going east on Farragut avenue. According to police reports, Ditzler stopped for just a second but did not get out of his car. He was finally stopped on Route 13 about a mile from the scene of the accident. No one was hurt but both cars were damaged, police report. Officers Farragall and Morris investigated.

Thrown from a jeep in a collision at Cottman street and Torresdale avenue, Philadelphia, Saturday, Alberta Hendrickson, 40, of Eddington, Bucks county, suffered injuries of the head and right hip. She was treated at Frankford Hospital. The jeep was driven by Edward G. Moore, Jr., 38, also of Eddington, who was uninjured. Nicholas Branc, 29, of Vandike street, near Cottman, driver of the other automobile, was treated at the hospital for scalp lacerations.

STRANGE CUSTOMS

Two years ago this month, the Customs Bureau managed to throw a mild scare into the American people. It had asked for $30,000,000 from Congress for the fiscal year 1948. A little more than $3,000,000 had been lopped from that sum by the House Appropriations Committee. The Customs Bureau was one of a number of departments and bureaus that reacted by using a scare technique.

If that cut is made, said the Customs Bureau March 21, it will be necessary to drop 1,400 border and port patrolmen one week from now. (Later it raised the figure to 1,576). And the United States will be "wide open" to smugglers and illegal immigrants.

The threat was carried out for a few weeks. But the Appropriations Committee later had an investigation made by an independent engineering concern. It revealed that while essential patrolmen were ruthlessly fired or furloughed, non-essential or political appointees were left undisturbed. And after the headlines faded and the protests died down most of the patrolmen went back to work.

The payoff came a year later. When the Customs Bureau asked for funds for fiscal 1949, it actually asked for $500,000 less than the amount Congress gave it the year before—less than the sum it said would result in leaving the nation's borders unpatrolled.

Any arm of the government should get a sum large enough to permit it to function efficiently. But the agency's word is an unreliable guide for Congress in determining the size of appropriations. It will be interesting to see how much the Customs Bureau asks for in fiscal 1950, how much it gets, and whether it tries the same tactics again.

BOMBER OF THE FUTURE

A few squeamish Americans may be expected to denounce the latest Air Force pronouncement as "war-mongering," a category in which they include every move that is not calculated to appease Russia. The statement that 70 areas within Russia have been marked down as strategic targets in the event of war is not likely to win the plaudits of the leftwing segment of the populace.

The B-36 bomber, which in 1944 was still a top secret on the drafting boards at Wright Field, can fly 9,600 miles without refueling. That means it can get into Russia, drop its bombs, and return. It is especially equipped to drop atomic bombs.

It can fly above 40,000 feet (no other bomber in the world can, the Air Force believes) above the flak and above the levels where jet planes have the speed and maneuverability to offset the handicap of their low-caliber, short-range guns.

This is not the way a nation talks publicly when it is conspiring to start a war. But it is intended to discourage Russia if she has any intention of opening hostilities soon.

Three Parties --- Or Five

But because, at the national level, there has not been in any recent campaign a Republican nominee who fearlessly stood up for the historic principles of the Party, the New Deal Democrats have been able to cling to power at Washington.

The Young Turk movement among Republicans may be viewed as the current version of a splinter in the party that traces as far back as the Grant Administration, and has been perpetuated at least as much by personal rivalries for leadership as by any other factor.

Or it can be interpreted as simply an effort to outbid the New Deal in its own special field—that of "give-away" government. Unlike the stalwart wing of the party, which has scored big victories wherever it has carried its fight to the voters, the Young Turks and their predecessors can point to extremely few successes, either in the remote past or recently.

The Jeffersonian Democrats are the members of that party who still believe in the Constitution. Their principal link with Jefferson, perhaps, is that they share his aversion to strongly centralized government as productive of dictatorship. They foresee the early bankruptcy of Uncle Sam under present financial policies. They oppose Labor-Socialist government in any form.

Although numerically much the biggest part of the Democratic membership, the Jeffersonians long ago lost control of their own party. They have had virtually nothing to say about platforms, nominees or policies since 1936. The collisions between Roosevelt and Congress, and the still sharper battles between Truman and Congress, virtually all trace to the fact that at least half of the Democratic Party opposes their party's titular head.

The official Democratic Party, of which Mr. Truman is boss, is the remnants of the fusion which Mr. Roosevelt was able to hold together with some success, but which has fallen apart under Mr. Truman; machine political bosses in a handful of metropolitan areas, plus radical dictators in the labor movement, plus the great body of voters who are "controlled" through Uncle Sam's two-million payroll.

Greed for power and patronage, far more than unity of ideals, holds this faction together. Because it is "in," it has been able to use vast powers of punishment and reward in political fields, and thereby beat down or buy up many of the outstanding leaders among less-radical Democrats who have attempted to fight it.

The fifth political party is the unascertainable number of Americans who think that the best future for this nation lies in cooperation with Russia, rather than hostility. Henry Wallace attempted to crystalize this movement in his recent Third Party campaign. But Mr. Truman out-bid him for pro-socialist support in domestic policies, and the outright pro-communists thereupon deserted Wallace also.

How do these parties stand numerically? This is a tough question. It can be answered in part, however, on the basis of election results in recent years, principally by comparison of the returns in State campaigns with the national returns in those same States.

The largest single political bloc in this nation would appear to be the Stalwart Republicans. In State after State, where the Young Turk type of candidate has lost out, or won by a whisker, the Stalwart Republican candidates have won by near-landslides. Pennsylvania has abundant instances to prove the truth of this statement. So do nearly all of the big-population states.

Second largest numerical bloc is the Old-Line Democrat. The Dixiecrats of whom Mr. Truman spoke are only a drop in the bucket. It is absurd for him to hint that the only issue involved is that of civil-rights. The Democratic Party in Pennsylvania has been rent and torn, ever since 1938, by the tug-of-war between New Deal and Old Line Democratic factions in this State.

These two large Republican and Democratic blocs, it will be noted, have more in common than in opposition. Together they have probably between two-thirds and three-fourths of the votes of the American people. If by some miracle they could be united into a single party, they would dominate the country for years.

The Young Turk Republicans are more noisy than numerous. In election showdowns, where there was a real fight, they usually have lost out either to Republican Stalwarts or to the Democrat combines.

The New Deal Labor-Socialists hold their power solely from the fact that they have a grip on the nation's resources, patronage, and propaganda facilities. In recent years, where the members of this group have had to fight political battles on their own, they usually have been snowed under if they faced real opposition.

As for the pro-Communists, on the face of the election returns they would seem to be only a fringe. But every sign indicates that they have never shown their hand. The Red tactics, as everyone knows, are to bore from within. And that is what these radicals are doing. No one can estimate their political potential.

The fusion in Congress which smashed the Truman scheme to make a WPA project out of enforcing civil rights in the South was not the real union of two major political wings, as the Truman remark might have indicated.

It was, and is for the present, merely a temporary and strategic alliance between part of the Jeffersonian wing of the Democratic party—the Dixiecrat portion—and a group of the Stalwart Republicans.

It has had a very great significance in national affairs, and may spell the death, at this Session at least, of much of the Truman Socialism he has promised to deliver.

But it is wholly insignificant by comparison with the possible future alliance between the Stalwart Republicans, who have long been denied any real voice in national affairs, and their Democratic counterparts—the Old-Line Jeffersonians, whose party has been kidnapped from them, and who are also "out in the cold."

That is one of the few ways by which Constitutional government and financial solvency might be rescued from the political plunderbund which is rapidly undermining both.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

(By Courier Staff Member)

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol Aug. 10, 1899. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger

There were 849 who went on the annual excursion of the employees of William H. Grundy & Co. to Atlantic City last Saturday. Hugh Mackey and Thomas Harrison, who work his way from one city to the other. Those were wonderful old days when a coach called the Flying Machine used to make the distance between the two cities in a day and a half or two days, or some such apparently fabulous time, and now that the little space of years has been bridged over by the temporary device of the railway, there is to be a line of coaches again.

But its hardly to be supposed that freight will be sent from New York to Philadelphia by an automobile coach, or that persons who are in a hurry to transact business will go that way at present, though even that may not be so far off, now that there is a line of automobile street cars in New York. . . .

William H. J. Wilson, who went to the Philippines to engage in missionary work, upon his arrival was appointed a lay reader for the Episcopal Church. He had been made chaplain on the transport "Warren" after the vessel left San Francisco.

A dispatch from Vera Cruz to London states that the schooner "Annie E. Stevens" loaded with wood, is ashore on Bar Alvarado and that the cargo will probably be lost. The "Stevens" was formerly owned and sailed by the late Captain Lewis W. Tice, of Bristol, who was engaged in trading between the ports of Philadelphia and Lynn, Mass.

The Bristol Rolling Mill is filling an order for 500 tons of iron for a Philadelphia customer.

An automobile company in New Jersey with a capitalization of over $1,000,000 is going to run more automobiles, and run them further than any company has ever done before. The president of the company is quoted as saying: "We will establish a connecting system between New York and Philadelphia."

It is not clear whether this means that through automobiles will be run between New York and Philadelphia.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Waste

Washington, March 21. THOSE disposed to be skeptical that a real reorganization of the executive branch of the Government along the lines recommended by the Hoover Commission would save the great sum of $3,000,000,000 annually, at the same time increasing efficiency, are referred to the single item of Federal publicity and publications. This is more or less an incidental activity of the Government. Certainly, it is not one of its major or more costly functions.

YET, even a casual study will convince any open-minded man that in this field alone many million dollars of totally unnecessary expenditures can be lopped off with wholly healthful results. For here is waste, inefficiency, duplication, absurdity, unintelligence and lack of all sense either of restraint or proportion, at their almost incredible worst. Recently, in a Senate speech Senator H. Styles Bridges, of New Hampshire, presented a factual picture of this Federal publication business which ought to have had more attention than it got. It revealed an utterly indefensible situation, the continuation of which indicates the intelligence of our people and calls into question the soundness of our system.

IT is not possible in this space adequately to present the facts as laid down by Senator Bridges, but it is worth while to recite some of them. In the first place, while the records of the Government Printing Office are complete, that is not true of the multitudinous agencies and departments which operate publishing plants of their own. For these there is no cost accounting system, no way of discovering the cost or the volume of their activities. All we know is that the cost runs into the hundreds of millions and that many thousands are employed. In the past ten years the Government Printing Office has delivered 133,582,867,587 copies of printed matter. Last year 12,000,000,000 of such copies were delivered, which is nearly double the 1939 figure.

THIS includes all types of printed matter and for all departments. But it does not include the immense quantities of material turned out by the departments and agencies themselves. No one can even estimate the magnitude of what these have printed on their own presses. However, in 1947 the Joint Committee on Printing established that there were 133 Government printing plants and 256 Government duplicating plants throughout the country. One department had 44 such plants; another, 41; another 23. One agency had 100 duplicating plants; another, 43. In all, there were 32 agencies with such plants. In one city there were 25; in another, 23; in Washington, 61. In this are not included the Government Printing Office operations, which has nine plants of its own.

LAST year, says Senator Bridges, the superintendent of documents issued free of charge, for these agencies, 61,979,102 publications. How many millions more the agencies issued for themselves can only be surmised. Daily from these agencies there is a constant flow of pamphlets and documents. Some of these are necessary and intelligent, but a very large proportion are neither. The output of one agency often contradicts another or duplicates it. The mails are cluttered up with them, and they are scattered throughout the Union. It is impossible to tell whether the cost of distribution is higher than the cost of manufacture or vice versa. But, just as there is no way of getting full figures of the cost, there is, as of now, no way to co-ordinate, direct, restrict or supervise these tremendous publication activities, no inconsiderable part of which are pure propaganda.

AS evidence of mismanagement and bad judgment, tons of undistributed publications dating back many years are piled up in the storage warehouses of the printing office. Other unknown tons have been transferred to agency warehouses or sold as waste paper. During the past two years the printing office condemned over 10,000,000 publications. No one knows how many were condemned by the agencies themselves. Hoover Commission investigators found widespread evidence of undistributed publications. Many hundreds of thousands of copies of some publications were found which had been lying around for years—untouched and unwanted.

CONCEDING that some of the Government pamphlets convey useful information and are justifiable, Senator Bridges gives a long list of silly ones which sustain his contentions. He asserts that if the Senate—and, particularly, the Appropriations Committee—will not limit their scrutiny to printing and binding funds but probe into the cost of research, writing, editing, distribution and other hidden costs, a very large waste can be eliminated. "Here," he declares, "is a field in which, without any attempt to censor, great savings can be made without disservice to anyone except the budding authors who have no other outlet for their unwanted wares."

The other defendant, Earl E. Smith, who operated an automobile agency at 601 West Broad street, Bethlehem, but who now maintains a garage at 11 Hanover street, Allentown, denied that Duffy was in his employ, that he never paid him a salary or that he gave him permission to use his car. "I haven't seen Duffy since September; I don't know where he is now."

Although Duffy was driving Smith's car and the license plates were dealer's registered in Smith's automobile agency's name, Smith emphatically denied that Duffy was working for him.

"I told the plaintiffs, Mr. and Mrs. Lanteigne, that the car was mine, but never that Duffy was working for me," Smith testified.

"Do you remember my asking you why you didn't come to the scene of the accident the same day it happened instead of waiting several days?" Attorney Freed hammered at the defendant, Smith.

Smith insisted that he spoke to Attorney Freed the day of the crash and not two days later.

The trial includes claims for more than $20,000 in damages, including a claim of $14,500 by the plaintiffs, Mr. and Mrs. Lanteigne, proprietors of "The Pines," and individual claims for injuries range from $1,146 to $5,000.

The plaintiff, Renee Lanteigne, is now employed as a chef in a diner in New York state and his wife is employed in a factory in Quakertown.

The father and mother plaintiffs and their son and daughter operated "The Pines," no one receiving a salary, but Mrs. Lanteigne testified her individual earnings ranged from $25 to $45 a week, depending on business.

Distribute Applications For The AMA Licenses

At Wednesday's Aeromodelers meeting AMA license applications for sanctioned contest model flying were distributed. Members are to take applications to this week's meeting (Wednesday) where they will be processed and sent to the AMA representative in Pennsylvania. Charles Rauch was appointed as clerk in charge of the club tools.

Several members who did not make the grade during their three months trial membership in the club were dropped from membership. It is a club by-law that each member must display sufficient club interest and ability during a three months period after becoming a member.

The group was optimistic over news of a piece of land that may soon be made available for use as a club flying field. Club contests, outdoor meetings, exhibitions and team racing could be held on such grounds.

Prizes for the club junior precision flying contest consist of a "Forster 29" engine for 1st prize (donated by Aeromodelers); 2nd prize will be an "Ohlsson 29" engine pack, donated by Abrams Hobby Shop. Other prizes will also be given.

Aviation "movies," loaned by the U. S. Air Force, will be shown on March 30th. Club members have been anxiously awaiting favorable weather so that they may test fly many new models and continue with the club flying sessions. For the most part the club has been grounded by bad weather since February. Some control line flying and free flight flying have been done, the latter being led by Harry Brown on Rohm and Haas field.

At this Wednesday's meeting the guest speaker will be the president of the Mayfair Model Club.

SMART, NEW STYLING OF TRADITIONAL CAPE COD DESIGN

DESIGN NO. 8210

One of the most practical architectural styles is Cape Cod. Here you see a modern version. The first floor offers complete living quarters for a small family. When the second floor is finished you have a three-bedroom home with two baths.

This design is the latest addition to the scores of architect-planned homes in our Weyerhacuser 4-Square Home Building Service. Like all the others, it has been engineered for strong, enduring construction, employing the maximum of ready-to-use materials.

Come in...examine all the designs in the Service. Your time will be profitably spent and result in securing greater home value from every building dollar.

ACTIONS FOR DIVORCE

Mrs. Margaret J. Poore, A Minor, Asks Divorce From Edward Poore

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 21 — In the Court of Common Pleas here, four suits have been entered. In one a Tincum township man is being sued for $1,000; in another a Lower Southampton township storekeeper is being sued for $474, and in two divorce libels the complainants are a Langhorne, RD 2 minor, and a Bedminster matron.

Thomas Erwin, Tincum township, has been named the defendant in an action in assumpsit by Little, Wilson & Deats Company, Pittsboro, N. J., who are claiming $1,000.17 with interest from Feb. 23, 1948.

LETTER-A-DAY CAMPAIGN TO PROTEST BRIDGE

Morrisville Committee Plans To Bombard Senators With Communications

TELL OF OBJECTIONS

MORRISVILLE, Mar. 21 — A letter writing campaign protesting the bill providing for the proposed bridge across the Delaware river here has been launched. It is planned to write a "letter-a-day" to each of the 50 State Senators at Harrisburg from a member of the protest committee.

The letters will urge the Senators to defeat the bill which would give the Delaware River Bridge Commission power to take over borough property for its purposes without interference from borough authorities. The bill was passed by the State Assembly last week.

In their letters the Committee members will point out the various aspects of the situation as it affects Morrisville. The bill would enable the Commission to go ahead with its plans to build a new toll bridge at Morrisville. This would mean the members will declare, that approximately 50 homes would have to be torn down in the borough to make way for the approach to the bridge.

THREE PARTIES—OR FIVE

Those Americans who are trying seriously to analyze our national situation, and who are watching closely the Truman drive to shove Socialism down the throat of Congress, would do well not to be misled by the President's remark about a "three-party Congress."

What the President said (as customary, the reporters did not quote his exact words at the press conference) was to the effect that this nation now has three political parties—Republican, Democrat and Dixiecrat.

This is incorrect. The moment one goes beyond the two major parties of the times—Republicans and Democrats—it becomes obvious there are five political parties, not three.

These divisions are as follows:
1. The Stalwart Republicans.
2. The "Liberal," Young Turk Republicans.
3. The Old-Line Jeffersonian Democrats (of which the Dixiecrats are merely a wing).
4. The Labor-Socialist Democrat radicals (to which Mr. Truman belongs).
5. The pro-Communists, who refused the Wallace bid to come out into the open, and are working largely under cover.

The Republican Stalwarts are the large portion of the Party who still believe in the principles of Republicanism founded by Abraham Lincoln and adhered to during the eighty years or so that saw the greatest success of the nation and the Republican Party.

This group believes in the Constitution, and wants to return to Constitutional government. It bitterly opposes the present policy of financing government spending by inflation. It supports representative republican government, which is government by law rather than men, and government dedicated to protecting the rights of minorities; as opposed to democratic government, which is dictatorship of the majority, in which minorities have no rights.

Because, at the state level, this portion of the Republican Party was able to get capable and energetic spokesmen to lead it, the Republicans "came back" during the past twelve years from their Maine-Vermont low-water mark of the 1936 defeat.

JUSTICES DISCUSS NUMEROUS PROBLEMS

CONSIDER BAIL BONDS

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 21 — In a meeting of the Bucks County Magistrates' and Justices' of Peace Association held here one of the subjects discussed was a subject brought to the floor by a Warminster township Justice of peace. He asked: "What can be done about a church which sells tickets for a dance and among other refreshments furnishes beer and some of the beer drinkers are minors and get into trouble?" A Middletown Township justice suggested that it was a problem for Liquor Control Board officials.

A Churchville "Squire" urged charging the church officials which engage in such a practice with contributing to the delinquency of minors.

The subject of bail-bonds, those which are on the acceptable list, was discussed. Justice of the Peace Fred L. Bickel suggested that a list of acceptable bail-bonding companies be made up by the Deputy Clerk of Quarter Sessions Walter C. Schroeder and circulated to the Bucks county members.

Another complaint was about getting a J. of P. out of bed anytime between 1 and 4 o'clock Sunday morning to take care of some "Saturday night drunk or rowdy."

3M SALES SET HIGH RECORD, REPORT SHOWS

Annual Report Shows An Increase of 15.8% In Sales

DIVIDEND PAID, $2.10

ST. PAUL, Minn., Mar. 21 — Total sales of the Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Co., and its subsidiaries, were $108,246,410 for 1948, setting an all-time record.

The company's annual report, released to stockholders today, showed net income for the year of $13,234,756 after providing $8,700,000 for federal and state taxes.

In 1947 the gross was $93,437,137, and the net was $10,715,376. Last year's record shows an increase of 15.8 per cent in sales, but the percentage of profit to sales was up less than one per cent.

In a letter which accompanied the financial statement, 3M's president, W. L. McKnight, said that for much of 1948 it was impossible to increase selling prices as rapidly as costs rose.

This, he indicated, accounted in a large measure for the small increase in the percentage of net income. Earnings per share of common stock for the year were $6.51, compared with $5.47 for the previous year. Dividends of $2.10 per share were paid on the common in 1948, and $4.90 on the preferred, first issued late in 1947.

Wages, salaries and other compensation paid to employees in 1948 were $31,389,686, up 19 per cent over the year before. The number of em-Continued on Page Four

The Giglio boy was struck by a car driven by Louis DiTullo, 836 Beaver street, Saturday afternoon at about 3:30 o'clock. Tullio took the injured boy to the hospital, where X-rays are to be taken. Tullio was driving north on Washington street, north of Pond street. He said that he did not see the boy but heard a thump and stopped his car and found the boy under the machine. ONE MAN'S OPINION

The Senate Air Committee has approved a radar screen for the country and Bill O'Dwyer hopes to get one for his city hall.

Workmen were busy there today taking out the old pay stations and putting in pigeon cotes . . . five cents for the first three miles and they won't talk to strangers.

That's much better than the other idea of equipping the phone booths with x-ray, fluoroscope, and an electric chair.

There's so much wire tapping in New York, one fellow dined the zoo and an ape answered.

Anyway with this radar screen around the country we can see who is coming if not who is listening.

Witness Taken Ill; She Cannot Testify

The other defendant, Earl E. Smith, who operated an automobile agency at 601 West Broad street, Bethlehem, but who now maintains a garage at 11 Hanover street, Allentown, denied that Duffy was in his employ, that he never paid him a salary or that he gave him permission to use his car. "I haven't seen Duffy since September; I don't know where he is now."

Although Duffy was driving Smith's car and the license plates were dealer's registered in Smith's automobile agency's name, Smith emphatically denied that Duffy was working for him.

"I told the plaintiffs, Mr. and Mrs. Lanteigne, that the car was mine, but never that Duffy was working for me," Smith testified.

"Do you remember my asking you why you didn't come to the scene of the accident the same day it happened instead of waiting several days?" Attorney Freed hammered at the defendant, Smith.

Smith insisted that he spoke to Attorney Freed the day of the crash and not two days later.

The trial includes claims for more than $20,000 in damages, including a claim of $14,500 by the plaintiffs, Mr. and Mrs. Lanteigne, proprietors of "The Pines," and individual claims for injuries range from $1,146 to $5,000.

The plaintiff, Renee Lanteigne, is now employed as a chef in a diner in New York state and his wife is employed in a factory in Quakertown.

The father and mother plaintiffs and their son and daughter operated "The Pines," no one receiving a salary, but Mrs. Lanteigne testified her individual earnings ranged from $25 to $45 a week, depending on business.

Distribute Applications For The AMA Licenses

At Wednesday's Aeromodelers meeting AMA license applications for sanctioned contest model flying were distributed. Members are to take applications to this week's meeting (Wednesday) where they will be processed and sent to the AMA representative in Pennsylvania. Charles Rauch was appointed as clerk in charge of the club tools.

Several members who did not make the grade during their three months trial membership in the club were dropped from membership. It is a club by-law that each member must display sufficient club interest and ability during a three months period after becoming a member.

The group was optimistic over news of a piece of land that may soon be made available for use as a club flying field. Club contests, outdoor meetings, exhibitions and team racing could be held on such grounds.

Prizes for the club junior precision flying contest consist of a "Forrestor 29" engine for 1st prize (donated by Aeromodelers); 2nd prize will be an "Olsson 29" engine pack, donated by Abrams Hobby Shop. Other prizes will also be given.

Aviation "movies," loaned by the U. S. Air Force, will be shown on March 30th.

Club members have been anxiously awaiting favorable weather so that they may test fly many new models and continue with the club flying sessions. For the most part the club has been grounded by bad weather since February. Some control line flying and free flight flying have been done, the latter being led by Harry Brown on Rohm and Haas field.

At this Wednesday's meeting the guest speaker will be the president of the Mayfair Model Club.

March 15. He would have been 83 in May.

The Rev. Mr. Myers lived at Neshaunim from 1931 until 1945 and during his residence there, served as supply at the Harboro Baptist Church and other Baptist churches on numerous occasions. His last pastorate was at Mt. Union and among other communities he served in his long career in the ministry were Ephraim, Shamokin, Hazleton, Chester and Holmesburg.

employees climbed nine per cent to 8,879.

During the year the company opened a new roofing granule plant at Corona, Cal., and purchased Lee Larson & Co., a nation-wide outdoor advertising concern with headquarters in Waukesha, Wis. The latter was merged with another 3M subsidiary, the National Advertising Co.

A former war plant was purchased in the summer of 1948 and is currently being remodeled and equipped for production. It is located in Bristol, Pa. (This plant is now in partial operation.)

Two new factories near Hastings, Minn., are approaching completion. This group of new units makes up a "substantial part" of the company's $20,000,000 expansion program, the report said.

At the end of the year the parent company had 10 branch plants and 18 branch offices and warehouses operating in 14 states.

Emphasizing the important role of scientific research in the growth of his company, McKnight said, "Sales of products either not in existence or with little or no commercial value two years ago exceeded $9,000,000 in 1948."

The 3M company makes pressure-sensitive adhesive tapes, coated abrasives, reflective materials, roofing granules, electrical tapes, industrial adhesives, color pigments and chemicals and miscellaneous lines.

Today's Quiet Moment

By the Rev. Smerian R. Brown
Pastor
Bethel A.M.E. Church
